CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The Cincinnati Narrow-Gauge Railroad Convention-Railroad Freight Discriminations-Hon. Casey Young's Statement in Regard to the Customhouse.

Letter of Protest to John Sherman against the Fraudulent Schneider Contract-The Burned Elevator Must be Built-Opening of the Big Hatchie.

At a quarter to four o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Ben Eiseman, president of the chamber of commerce, called the regular monthly meeting to order at the chamber. About fifty business men were present for the purpose of participating at the meeting. Mr. retary John S. Toof read the minutes of the previous meeting, when the following business was conducted:

RAILBOAD CONVENTION. A communication from the Cincinnati committee of the National narrow-gauge railroad committee, containing an invitation to attend the narrow-gauge railroad convention, to be held in Cincinnati on the seventeenth instant, was read and received. The following committee was appointed: T. H. Allen, F. S. Davis, J. T. Pettit.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS RECEIVED. Several communications covering government department reports, comprising several large volumes, were received.

RAILROAD FREIGHT DISCRIMINATIONS. Mr. Hanauer, chairman of the freight discriminating committee, submitted a lot of correspondence had with different railroads. namely: Chicago, St, Louis, and New Orleans railroad companies. The committe was granted further time in which to complete a report on the communications re ceived, etc., which report would be presented in due time to the chamber of commerce. HON. CASEY YOUNG.

This gentleman having appeared, President Eiseman called him to the chair and introduced him to the chamber. Colonel Young thanked the chamber for the compliment tendered him. As to local matters of interest to Memphis, he would say that the passage of he custombouse bill was very troubless It was violently opposed, but it became a law at the closing hours of congress. Before the ink in which it was written was dry, and immediately after it became a law, the supervising architect, or the secretary of the treasury, let out the contract to Mr. Schneider, who had the sandstone contract. The secretary of the treasury explained to him in an interview that he did so because Mr. Schneider would have had claims for damages against the government because the former contract was annulled. After a warm interview with the secretary of the treasury, that gentleman said that the contract given to Mr. Schneider -The different courts of record did a light | would be annulled, and an offer for bids for Tennessee marble would be made. But for the prompt action of the chamber of commarble men of the country had been notified > is as follows: House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., July 2, 1878. Sre-I deem it my duty to call your attention to some apparent irregularities in reference to the construction of the customhouse, postoffice, etc., at Memphis, Tennessee, and to respectfully request that you will make them the subject of official inquiry, with a view to their correction should they be found to exist. He moved that a committee of five be appointed to suggest some plan by which the elevator could be erected, and that the com-Soon after the contract was let out (about the first of May last) to furnish material for the building, I was informed from a reliable source that Mr. P. W. Schneider, to whom the contract was awarded, was not the lowest bidder; and I have in my possession what purports to be a copy of all bids "taken from the books of the supervising architect," from which it appears that there were at least four other persons who proposed to furnish the same material at a less price than was bid by the person to whom the contract was given. I was also informed at the same time that the material proposed to be furnished by Mr. Schneider (Illinois sandstone), and accepted by the supervising architect, was of an inferior character and wholly unfit to be used in the construction of a public building. Acting upon this information, and desiring to be correctly advised in the matter, I summoned before the house committee on public buildings and grounds a number of architects and builders, among them several government officers, and submitted to them a specimen of this sandstone furnished to me by Mr. Hill, the supervising architect, equesting them to examine it and state its character as a building material. This they did; and I herewith inclose you their report, in which the information I had formerly received in relation to the matter is fully confirmed in every particular. During the progress of this examination, I was informed that the stone had been taken from a quarry recently opened; that no building had ever before been constructed out of it, and that he had accepted it without making any looking at the specimen submitted. After the inclosed report was prepared and submitted to the house another specimen of sandstone of greatly superior quality was sent me by the supervising architect, with the infor-mation that it had been taken from a different strata in the same quarry, and that Mr. Schneider proposed to substitute that for the one first presented. An examination of these two stones exhibits so striking a difference in their quality as renders it extremely improbable that they should have come from the same quarry; and I am informed by two or three gentlemen, who I deem reliable, that as a matter of fact they did not, but that one of them was taken from an Illinois and the other from an Ohio quarry. If this is true, the contractor was evidently trying to practice a deception upon the architect. The bill directing the building to be constructed of Tennessee marble became a law on the nineteenth of June, and within two or three days thereafter, without advertisement or notice to other parties, the supervising architest let this contract for furnishing this new material to the same contractor who had engaged to furnish the sandstone. This hasty action was decided upon, I am informed, under the apprehension that otherwise the con-tractor would claim heavy damages of the government by reason of the former contract having been annulled; but, if I am correctly informed, this apprehension is entirely unfounded, and the contractor can only claim a very trifling sum for all the loss he has sustained. I am told by one or two gentlemen that two thousand dollars will cover the entire amount of such loss. There is a very general, and, to my mind, a very just complaint among the owners of marble quarries in Tennessee at this action of the department in excluding all others from the benefits of an specially referred. I feel that I owe it to the public interest, to demand that the furnishing of this marble may be opened to public competition by advertisement sufficiently extended to make it generally known. I do not wish to be understood as professional and product the public bread and elegant cakes, crullers, waffles, doughnuts, muffins and griddle cakes of every kind are always possible to every table by using Booley's yeast powder.

wish to be understood as preferring any charge against the honesty or efficiency of the supervising architect, but a simple request that he be required to pursue a course which seems manifestly in the line of his official duty. I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant, CASEY YOUNG. Hon. John Sherman, Secretary of the Treasury Colonel Young proceeded with his remarks, and stated that the amount of appropriations for the customhouse are as follows: The original amount of the appropri-Bersheeba springs, where they will spend the ation was four hundred thousand dollars, the additional amount was eighty-five thousand dollars, making the total amount four hundred and eighty-five thousand dollars. As to the appropriation for protecting the harbor, wharf and landing, before that can be secured, surveys, etc., must be made. Congress must first authorize the survey and an estimate of the cost before the appropriation can be made. Congress did appropriate forty-six thousand dollars for that purpose, the amount asked for by Major Benyaurd, the United States engineer at this point. The secretary of the treasury had stated to him (Colonel Young) that he would have the survey comfrom teething or other causes. An old and well-tried remedy. Twenty-five cents a bottle. menced at once by the engineers. Colonel Young added that, owing to the intense heat, he asked to be excused from speaking more giving of the contract to Mr. Schneider in the Mr. I. M. Hill read from the Congressiona Record as to the original bids for material for house, and the giving of the con-

Colonel Young explained that the article read by Mr. Hill from the Congressiona. Record was the argument of the counsel of Schneider & Co. He (Colonel Young) had shown before the committee in congress that there were four bids lower than that of Schneider & Co., and the supervising architect explained that he gave the contract to Schneider & Co. because he thought them the most responsible parties. Four gentlemen most re-sponsible offered to build the Memphis customhouse at a lower price than Schneider & Co. He (Colonel Young), as a citizen and member of congress, now asserted that the act of the supervising architect in this matter was one of the most outrageous frauds ever perpetrated in this country, and when he went back to congress in December next he did not hink that the supervising architect would hold his office much longer. The remon-strance of this chamber will be listened to by congress and by the head of any departmen in Washington. Let this contract be an-nulled, let bids be advertised for, and then certainly nothing can be lost by any one or by the government. He again asked the chamber to protest to the secretary of the treasury, asking him to stop and annul the contract with Schneider & Co., and let out the contract to the lowest bidder. [Applause.]

LETTER TO JOHN SHERMAN. Mr. J. T. Trezevant offered a letter, as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Edward Shaw, colored, chairman the county committee, made a statement as to the acts of the county committee and his own stewardship. He denied many charges brought against him as to his position. In the conference held between the Republican and National committees to get up a ticket dence than had these Nationalists. The com mittees had several conferences. The Nationalists said on the streets that he [Shaw] had asked them to put him on the ticket. They hed—that's ail. The Workingmen came to the conference as a white man's party, and did not intend to give the colored workingman a chance. Can they dare to besand colored voters in Shelby county to vote their ticket without a colored repesenta-tive on it. Mr. Shaw then took the Avalanche then not sticking up to it. He charged that Colonel Kellar had made out the report and the ticket for publication in the Ledger of Saturday last. What right had he to interple? The Avalanche had been one of the strongest advocates of the "color-line" in Tennessee. The Avalanche presumes to dic-tate to the Republicans of Tennessee, and why? Because of the big mail contracts and the postoffice which it received. That paper would do to-day what the APPEAL does if the spoils of office did not prevent her from ised improved and cheap freighting facilities, so doing. He would present the ticket as agreed upon by the Republican committee. Green Evans, colored, asked whether the Republican executive committee had asked the Nationalists to put more than one colored man on the National ticket?
